

Customs transit made easy for the manufacturing industry

The manufacturing sector in the UK is critical for the economy, providing employment for around 2.7 million people in pharmaceutical preparation and manufacturing. Exports of manufactured products globally accounts for 45% of total exports which are worth £275 billion.

There are four main product sections:

- Automotive.
- Pharmaceuticals.
- Aerospace.
- Food and Drink.

The movement of all these products relies heavily on a robust supply chain and highly trained staff who have knowledge and expertise within this sector. At times movement timescales of consignments can be extremely critical, and flexible operating hours are needed.

SGS United Kingdom Ltd is supporting many companies within this sector, helping them with customs formalities while their products are moving in out of the Europe from the UK. We can play a key part in this process either by completing your customs paperwork, export and transit declarations (T1-T2), including built in functionality for Goods Vehicle Movement Service (GVMS) for you, or by providing a platform on which you can complete your own.

SGS operates 24/7/365 and there are several ways you can communicate with our operational team, providing flexibility. Should you require a transit document you do not need to get your own guarantee in place. We can support very high value shipments – invaluable within a sector where guarantees for some consignments run into the millions. SGS can provide a one-stop solution and we have trusted experts in place for your valuable cargo.

By working together, we can support your supply chain and keep your products moving. This simple approach means you have visibility and control at your fingertips.
