FAST AND RELIABLE SOLUTIONS TO TEST AND INSPECT THE QUANTITY AND QUALITY OF BUNKER FUEL

Engine failure on the high seas is never an option. Crew, cargo and passenger safety all hang in the balance. In addition, increasing scrutiny of the environmental impact of marine fuels means that compliance with environmental regulations now relies on the quality of the fuels used.

Experts in fuel analysis, we provide bunker fuel inspection and testing services that ensure both the quality of the fuel used and the amount delivered. Furthermore, our testing protocols for bunker fuel are in full conformity with ISO 8217 specifications and our laboratories are ISO 17025 accredited.

With a worldwide network of 1 250 offices and laboratories, we can respond to any need anywhere at anytime and quickly and efficiently turnaround test results.

Our quality and quantity testing services enable compliance with a variety of regulations, including:

- Marpol Annex VI
- Port state control inspections
- SOx Emission Control Area (SECA) for the North Sea and English Channel
- Bunker delivery requirements

With a single point of contact, 24/7 access to our analysis and test results through our web portal, and a flexible and transparent cost structure, we are the ideal partner for bunker fuel inspections and testing.
